Complex geometry and algebraic geometry are sisters – or brothers, I don't know, in French geometry is feminine – and complex geometry is the older one. I think you cannot pretend being an algebraic geometer without knowing a bit of complex geometry :

include graphical aspects into the complex analysis courses. These days queries of standard search engines yield an abundance of articles, applets and various course materials on the World Wide Web that implement graphical approaches to Complex Analysis. An excellent starting point is the page – Websites related to Visual Complex Analysis" [18].

INTERACTIVE VISUALIZATION IN COMPLEX ANALYSIS

Complex analysis is a subject that can serve many roles for different majors and types of students. The material and theorems reach into many areas of pure and applied mathematics.

with complex numbers as well as the geometric representation of complex numbers in the euclidean plane. We will therefore without further explanation view a complex number $x+iy$ as representing a point or a vector (x,y) in \mathbb{R}^2 , and according to our need we shall speak about a complex number or a point in the complex plane.

MATH20101 Complex Analysis 0. Preliminaries §0.2.7 The exam The exam will be in a similar format to previous years. The exam for MATH20101 consists of Part A (examining the Real Analysis part of the course) and Part B (examining the Complex Analysis part of the course). Each part contains 4 questions (so 8 questions in total).
