Excited states as resonances in the photon-atom continuum

Lyman continuum photons (abbrev. LyC), shortened to Ly continuum photons or Lyc photon , are the photons emitted from stars at photon energies above the Lyman limit . Hydrogen is ionized by absorbing LyC.

z_0)SS(z_0) giving rise to a continuum of (δ -function) states of Rydberg molecules. (We are making the frozen gas approximation, where we neglect the atomic motion as it is much slower than the polariton dynamics.) Upon increasing the continuum of states is still present while the wavefunction remains localized to the blockade radius.
