physics is the mechanical study of patterns of change of velocity. This new theory is also limited to this mechanical approach to interpreting the operation of the universe.

A NEW PHYSICS THEORY

New developments in the field of units, measurement and fundamental constants can arise unpredictably from developments in almost any branch of physics, which make new levels of precision available. So likely future developments in the field will emerge from future developments in the whole of physics.

Physics is the study of the world around us. In a sense we are more qualified to do physics than any other science. From the day we are born we study the things around us in an effort to understand how they work and relate to each other. Learning how to catch or throw a ball is a physics undertaking for example.

A large share of the published output of theoretical physicists consists of proposals for various forms of "Beyond the Standard Model" new physics proposals that would modify the Standard Model in ways subtle enough to be consistent with existing data, yet address its imperfections materially enough to predict non-Standard Model outcomes of new experiments that can be proposed.

Surely, theoretical physicists are immune to mere trends, dogmatic beliefs, or flights of fancy? In fact, acclaimed physicist and bestselling author Roger Penrose argues that researchers working at the extreme frontiers of physics are just as susceptible to these forces as anyone else.
